DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 12-15, and 18, drawn to compositions or kits comprising plasmids encoding the E2 protein, with or without other proteins, of the bovine diarrhea virus (BDV), classified in class 435, subclass 320.1.
 - II. Claims 16 and 17, drawn to methods of inducing immunological responses by administering a plasmid encoding a BDV protein, and another vaccine, classified in class 435, subclass 320.1.

For each of Groups I and II above, restriction to one of the following is also required under 35 USC 121. Therefore, election is required of one of Groups I and II, and one of inventions (A)-(C).

- (A) the elected invention wherein the plasmid encodes the E2 BDV protein;
- (B) the elected invention wherein the plasmid encodes the C, E1, and E2 BDV proteins;
or
- (C) the elected invention wherein the plasmid encodes the E1 and E2 BDV proteins.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Subgroups (B) and (C) are related as combinations and subcombination with subgroup (A). Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combinations as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because they may rely on the inclusion sequences coding for the other proteins, or on the combination thereof for patentability. The subcombination has the same separate utility as the combination (i.e. either to produce a viral protein, or to elicit an immunological response).

3. The inventions of Groups I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the Groups relate to plasmid, which may be used to produce the viral proteins, and to a method of using such plasmids in a method of inducing an immunological response. As the plasmids may be used in method other than the claimed method, the two groups of inventions are distinct.

Examiner's Notes

4. Claim 18 is in improper multiple dependant form as it depends from claim 17, which is also a multiple dependant claim. If Group I of the invention is elected, the claim will be objected to on this ground.

5. Claim 16 will be rejected in the first action on the merits if Group II is elected. The claim will be rejected because in identifying the composition that may be used in the method of the claim, it refers to the composition in claim 17, which in turn refers to the composition of claim 16 (i.e. the claims each depend from the other, and neither identifies the composition forming the basis of the reference).

Conclusion

6. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above, and because the literature and sequence searches required for any one of the groups is not required for the others, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. Applicant's attention is hereby directed to the following is a recitation of M.P.E.P. §821.04 regarding the restriction of claims to a product and processes of using the product,

Rejoinder:

Where product and process claims drawn to independent and distinct inventions are presented in the same application, applicant may be called upon under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect claims to either the product or process. See MPEP § 806.05(f) and § 806.05(h). The claims to the nonelected invention will be withdrawn from further consideration under 37 CFR 1.142. See MPEP § 809.02© and § 821 through § 821.03. However, if applicant elects claims directed to the product, and a product claim is subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims which depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be rejoined.

Where product and process claims are presented in a single application and that application qualifies under the transitional restriction practice pursuant to 37 CFR 1.129(b), applicant may either (1) elect the invention to be searched and examined and pay the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(s) and have the additional inventions searched and examined under 37 CFR 1.129(b)(2), or (2) elect the invention to be searched and examined and not pay the additional fee (37 CFR 1.129(b)(3)). Where no additional fee is paid, if the elected invention is directed to the product and the claims directed to the product are subsequently found patentable, process claims which either depend from or include all the limitations of the allowable product will be rejoined. If applicant chooses to pay the fees to have the additional inventions searched and examined pursuant to 37 CFR 1.129(b)(2), even if the product is found allowable, applicant would not be entitled to a refund of the fees paid under 37 CFR 1.129(b) by arguing that the process claims could have been rejoined. 37 CFR 1.26 states that "[m]oney paid by actual mistake or in excess will be refunded, but a mere change of purpose after the payment of money...will not entitle a party to demand such a return..." The fees paid under 37 CFR 1.129(b) were not paid by actual mistake nor paid in excess, therefore, applicant would not be entitled to a refund.

In the event of rejoinder, the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104 - 1.106. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103, and 112. If the application containing the rejoined claims is not in condition for allowance, the subsequent Office action may be made final, or, if the application was already under final rejection, the next Office action may be an advisory action.

Application/Control Number: 10/085,519

Art Unit: 1648

The following is a recitation from paragraph five, "Guidance on Treatment of Product and Process Claims in light of In re Ochiai, In re Brouwer and 35 U.S.C. §103(b)" (1184 TMOG 86(March 26, 1996)):

"However, in the case of an elected product claim, rejoinder will be permitted when a product claim is found allowable and the withdrawn process claim depends from or otherwise includes all the limitations of an allowed product claim. Withdrawn process claims not commensurate in scope with an allowed product claim will not be rejoined." (emphasis added)

In accordance with M.P.E.P. §821.04 and In re Ochiai, 71 F.3d 1565, 37 USPQ 1127 (Fed. Cir. 1995), rejoinder of product claims with process claims commensurate in scope with the allowed product claims will occur following a finding that the product claims are allowable. Until, such time, a restriction between product claims and process claims is deemed proper. Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, Applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to maintain either dependency on the product claims or to otherwise include the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder.

8. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
